

FAQ.

1. How to increase lines of code to make bigger software ?

Write code using Types, Operators and Expressions.

Write code using Control flow.

Write code using Functions.

Write code using data structures.

Write code using Input and Output and so on ...

Consider using many of the features a programming language has to offer.

Suppose you are planning to write a software of 1000 lines.

Consider writing 100 lines of code for 10 features of the language.

Consider finding ideas and information related to a feature of the language and the project you are working upon to increase new lines of code.